chance be run through it.

But although this description of houses may furnish plenty of work, and profits, too, for architects and builders, yet nothing can be further removed from genuine aristocracy than the people who buy and oc-cupy them. The old blood aristocracy may be known by their motto—" More land and less houss." Watch one of these families in one of your modern four or five atory 16 8 by 70 brown stone houses, jammed in along side of fifty more just like it, and each and all without air hole or elbow room. Bah! Is such mee fashionable streets, it ultimately will be—boarding and other houses, fashionable tenement houses, on an racy, you must follow the metto above statedflowers, &c. Let the house be built more on the ground and less in the air, and let the lands app gardener have something to say as well as the architect and builder. Let the houses stand well back from the noise and dust of the street, with plenty of space between the houses. Build up a street in this style, and you have doesned it to everlasting gentility. It is fit for nothing else. The houses are not big enough for boarding houses, hotels, doe; and, in short, there is so much of the whole value in the land, and so little comparatively in the house was that achoir but a man of waith is able to own proper, that nobody but a man of wealth is able to own and occupy it. Important as to the Authority of Constables Before Judge Green.

August 3 .- Mr. A. Nesbit, a constable elect of the Third ward, appeared in court and stated that the Court of Common Pleas had recently decided that the official bonds of the several constables of this city were informal in being drawn to "The People of the State of New York," instead of to "The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York," as required by law; and asks the Court whether he has authority to serve process issued out of this court

New York," as required by law; and asks the Court whether he has authority to serve process issued out of this court.

The Judge said that he had no doubt of the authority of constables to serve process, notwithstanding the informality spoken of. They are officers de facto. Having entered upon their duties under color of lawful title, they must be obeyed, and their acts respected, until judgment of ouster has been pronounced against them in the proper proceeding for that purpose. "Where there is a plain usurpation of an office without any show of title, the acts of the intruder will undoubtedly be void, both in relation to individuals and the public." (24 Wendell, R. pp. 526.) But that is not the case here; they have been duly elected and sworn; their only omission is in the bond. It is the duty of the several constables to correct the mistake in question without delay, in having a proper bond executed and filed; otherwise they become liable to indictment for neglecting to do so.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

M EMOIRS OF JAMES GORDON BENNEIT AND HIS M EMORIS OF JAMEN GORDON BENNETT AND HIS TIMES.

The delay in the publication of the above auxiously expected biographical work has been caused solely by the necessity of preparing for the press a second large edition, which will now enable the publishers to issue the work on Saturday, August 11. The interest which this valuable and entertaining book has excited in every part of the country has been greatly enhanced by the reviews of it which have already appeared; and its conceded by every one who has read the work that it embraces within its contents an amount of various facts, together with a philosophical survey of life in all its phases, enriched and enlivened by anecdotes, such as are seldom comprised in a single volume. It places the character of Mr. Bennett above the cavils of partisans, while it comprises an entire history of his remarkable career from poverty to affilmence, from the humblest station to political power. The work, fact, is the only truthful portrait of the eminent journalist of the Hazato newspaper, and impartially, fearlessly, and faithfully surveys a period of thirty-live years, together with all the incidents of prominent public unportance.

In one elegant volume of 488 pages, with a fine steel pertance.

In one elegant volume of 488 pages, with a fine steel metallion portrait. Price $1.26.
